Rubus parviflorus
Thimbleberry

Fast growing.
Grows to 4’ high and spreading outwards by underground rhizomes.
Grows well under redwoods.
Tolerates seasonal flooding.
Tolerates constantly moist soil.
Fragrant white flowers in Spring/Summer followed by pink edible fruit.
Great for a bird garden.
Deciduous.
Requires regular water.
Grows upright, forming open thickets.
Tolerates full shade.
Has no prickles (thorns).
Good for erosion control near streams.

Full shade to filtered sun
Regular water
Attracts butterflies
Attracts birds